BIOGRAPHY

Toronto-born artist NeneGlamorous (aka NeneGlam) is a rising force in music and a multifaceted entertainer making waves across the music industry. Blending hip hop, pop, R&B, house, Afrobeats, and reggae, her sound reflects cultural versatility and bold creative energy. More than an artist, NeneGlam is a performer, trendsetter, and emerging brand, pairing natural star power with strong commercial appeal.

NeneGlamorous has commanded major stages, including a 2022 live performance at Marvel Studios' Black Panther: Wakanda Forever soundtrack release party in Toronto. In 2024, she took the main stage at Pride Toronto—one of North America's largest LGBTQ+ festivals—and returned in 2025 for back-to-back performances across two days. These high-profile appearances underscore her growing momentum and ability to captivate large, diverse audiences.

NeneGlamorous has earned multiple radio placements on Flow 93.5 FM's Made in Toronto Takeover, with standout tracks "Fiyah Fiyah," "Money Dance," and "Want It All" receiving major airplay. Her music also caught the attention of Safaree, who amplified the singles across his social platforms. In 2021, she was featured on Amber Rose's mixtape Amber's Line Up, expanding her reach to a wider audience. That same year, she released the New Orleans bounce anthem "Birthday Baddie," followed by the genre-blending dancehall visual "Trouble Deh Deh" from her album Capo Donna, showcasing her versatility across sounds and styles.

NeneGlamorous has also earned recognition in Canadian pop culture as a three-time featured Sunshine Girl in The Toronto Sun, highlighting her image, brand appeal, and crossover visibility. In 2022, her track "Cookie" was featured on the motion picture soundtrack for Bite of a Mango, which premiered in Miami at the American Black Film Festival.

In an industry driven by authenticity, energy, and versatility, NeneGlamorous emerges as a fully realized artist ready for the global stage. With undeniable charisma, a proven live performance record, and a genre-blending sound that resonates across audiences, Nene is on the cusp of a major breakthrough. The takeover is already underway — now is the time to take notice.
